

Alex Sleis is an accomplished Information Security leader with 25+ years of industry experience. Distinguished by his breadth and depth of technology expertise, he has spent the last 19 years as an integral part of building and managing best-in-class information security programs from inception to maturity at Fortune 500 and mid-sized financial services companies.

Throughout his professional career, Alex has proven to be an adaptable and well-respected team player who can bridge the gap between differing viewpoints, obtain buy-in from stakeholders, and forge critical consensus. As a strategic partner to senior leadership, Alex is an expert in developing, implementing, and maintaining company-wide information security infrastructure and advising executive leadership on security priorities and investments.