Erin Quinn

Senior Vice President, Head of Housing Public Policy
Government Relations and Public Policy
Wells Fargo & Company

Erin Quinn joined Wells Fargo's Government Relations and Public Policy team in December 2021 to lead housing-related public policy work for the bank. In this role, she collaborates with internal and external partners to identify public policy priorities, advises on and leads strategic position development and advocacy efforts, and promotes executive branch engagement that enhances Wells Fargo's reputation as a housing thought leader.

Erin's career spans more than 25 years and has primarily focused on affordable and sustainable home lending policy, practice, and products. Prior to joining Wells Fargo, Erin developed Freddie Mac's housing finance agency (HFA) and Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) business channels, significantly expanding the HFA and CDFI client base and increasing Freddie Mac's affordable single family loan sourcing from these important industry segments.

Previously, Erin worked at the U.S. Department of the Treasury as the Program Director of the Hardest Hit Fund (HHF), which provided $7.6 billion to state HFAs to prevent foreclosures and stabilize housing markets in areas that were "hardest hit" by unemployment and home price declines. In this role, she directed the administration of the HHF and regularly represented Treasury and the HHF at interagency policy meetings and before White House representatives and members of Congress.

Prior to her tenure at Treasury, Erin served in various roles at the New Mexico Mortgage Finance Authority, including Director of Homeownership and Senior Policy and Program Advisor. Erin has also held financial and economic analyst roles for consulting and law firms, and served as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Honduras. She holds a Bachelor's Degree in Economics and Government/International Studies from the University of Notre Dame and an M.B.A. from the University of New Mexico.
