Greg Middleman

President, Freedom Mortgage

Greg Middleman serves as President of Freedom Mortgage, one of the nation's largest originators and servicers of residential mortgage loans, serving a growing portfolio of more than two million customers. Freedom Mortgage is a leading Ginnie Mae servicer and a top VA and FHA lender, dedicated to helping military families, first-time homebuyers, and underserved communities achieve homeownership.

Previously, Middleman served as Managing Director, where he led Third-Party Origination and oversaw the Correspondent and Wholesale Lending divisions.

During his time in Correspondent Lending, Middleman helped transform and scale operations, growing monthly volume from $1 billion to $12 billion within months and sustaining that level of production over time. He managed relationships with more than 500 clients, including many of the country's largest banks, independent mortgage banks, and builder-owned mortgage companies.

In Wholesale Lending, Middleman led one of the largest broker-driven platforms in the mortgage industry. He expanded the company's broker network, enhanced technology and operational infrastructure, and helped establish the division as a significant growth driver. Through a focus on broker partnerships, pricing optimization, and service excellence, he strengthened Freedom Mortgage's position as a leading partner to mortgage brokers nationwide.

Under Middleman's leadership, the Freedom Mortgage Exchange Platform grew to $4.5 billion in monthly volume and significantly expanded its network of MSR new buyers and sellers.

Greg Middleman

Before joining Freedom Mortgage in 2020, Middleman founded a technology company called Xpanse, which developed several platforms used by Freedom Mortgage and other originators, servicers, and vendors across the mortgage industry. Prior to that, he held positions at Ernst & Young on the structured finance team.

Middleman was recognized as an Inman Best of Finance award winner in both 2024 and 2025. In 2024, he was also named a HousingWire Finance Leader, honoring top finance executives driving growth and innovation across the housing economy. In 2023, he received HousingWire's Rising Stars Award, recognizing the mortgage industry's brightest and most accomplished leaders under 40.

Middleman earned an undergraduate degree from Towson University and an MBA at Vanderbilt University.
